'Big rush' of bomb calls post-Boston

Defusing panic.
Danger posed to public in just 10 to 20 per cent of responses

JEREMY NOLAIS
jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Calgary police are attributing a spike in suspicious-package reports in recent weeks to the Boston Marathon bombing.

Saturday will mark two months since pressure-cooker bombs went off at the finish line of the famous U.S. race, killing three and injuring more than 260 others.

Where Calgary's team of 10 bomb technicians have typically responded to one scene per week in recent years, Const. Jason Walliser said lately the workload has doubled — or even tripled — some weeks.

"We've certainly had a big rush of them," he said. "There's certainly a heightened awareness."

The calls have ranged greatly in threat, with reported devices turning out to be everything from a box filled with apples to an actual improvised explosive.

Last week, bomb techs had to use a water feature on one of their high-tech robots to douse a matchstick bomb, eliminating its detonation capability.

A week prior, crews responded to a particularly disturbing call that saw a cooker similar to the ones used in Boston dropped into a trash bin at the Brentwood LRT station. It was later determined no explosives were present.

Earlier that month, police evacuated the Calgary Courts Centre and shut down blocks of the downtown core after finding a "plasticine-like substance" that turned out to be non-explosive.

Both Walliser and fellow bomb tech Const. Dino Corradetti said they would rather investigate a call from the public than have someone not report it and a tragedy occur.

Corradetti said the team is forced to constantly research explosive devices, adding bomb types are only "limited by somebody's imagination."

But Walliser said the public doesn't need to panic. Prior to the Boston tragedy, local bomb calls had actually declined by as much as half in recent years, something he attributes directly to a crackdown on organized crime in the city.

Const. Jason Walliser is seen with some of the high-tech robots he and fellow Calgary bomb technicians rely on to help assess and disable explosive devices. JEREMY NOLAIS/METRO

Mental illness likely in 93 per cent of Calgary homeless: Study

Local study. Lead author is a recent Doctor of Medicine graduate from the University of Calgary

ROBSON FLETCHER
robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

An "astounding" 93 per cent of homeless people in Calgary tested positive in screening tests for mental illness, according to a new article in the Canadian Journal of Psychiatry.

The high figure came as some surprise to lead author Dr. Aravind Ganesh, but he said it's not far off similar studies in other countries.

"The bigger surprise for us was when we were looking at the proportion that was undiagnosed or unmanaged," Ganesh said, adding that "well over" 60 per cent of the homeless people he helped screen in the spring of 2012 said they've never had a single interaction with the mental health system.

The study saw 166 clients of the Calgary Drop-In, which Ganesh said is the largest homeless shelter in North America, complete questionnaires designed to screen for a wide range of mental illness. The results do not represent a diagnosis, he stressed.

Debbie Newman, executive director of the Drop-In, said the study confirms what's been observed anecdotally for years. She hopes the data will lead the province to provide the facility with greater mental-health resources. "We don't have a psychiatrist in house," she said. "If there's any support that can be offered through Alberta Health Services, it would be great."

Katrina Milaney of the Calgary Homeless Foundation said it's difficult to administer health care to transient people and the best way to address the problem is to address the city's lack of affordable housing. "If you get people stably housed, you can build a system of supports around them in their home," she said.

- AHS will provide an addictions counsellor and mental-health therapist to the Safe Communities Opportunity and Resource project, set to open on June 18.
- That project is aimed at serving vulnerable adults and youth who are homeless or at risk of homelessness.

Police seek witnesses after hit-and-run

Police are asking witnesses to come forward after a hit-and-run on 17th Avenue S.W. on Wednesday evening that seriously injured an elderly man.

"There are a lot of people that would've been in the area at that time," said Sgt. Colin Foster.

"Someone is going to have information that is imperative to our investigation, and we really encourage people, no matter how minor you think the information is, to come forward."

Police say they need help from the public in tracking down a dark-coloured Ford F-250 or F-350 truck with minor damage to the right front end.

The collision happened around 7:30 p.m. near the intersection of 17th Avenue and 9A Street S.W.

The 77-year-old man was struck while attempting to cross southbound on 9A Street, and the truck then fled the scene westbound, according to police.

The man was admitted to hospital in stable condition with serious but non-life-threatening injuries, said EMS spokesperson Chelsie Small.

Foster stressed that the minute a driver flees the scene of a collision, a criminal offence has been committed.

"Majority of them, if they stayed at the scene, may not have ended up with charges," he said.

Police encourage anyone with information about the incident to call them at 403-266-1234 or contact Crime Stoppers anonymously at 1-800-222-8477.

Scoreless report cards getting an unambiguous 'F' from one parent

Pilot in Okotoks. Calgary's public school board removing numerical grading at some schools this fall

jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Teachers have determined Okotoks eight-year-old Breckyn Bahr has "mastery" of the bulk of her subjects.

But mother Michelle's been left scratching her head.

"What does it all mean?" she said. "It's still a very grey area for me. I have asked a number of times if there's a number attached to that but haven't gotten an answer."

Foothills School Division, which includes Okotoks, began implementing word-based report-card assessments three years ago, according to deputy Supt. Del Litke.

The Calgary Board of Education stirred debate this week after reports surfaced it's testing a similar report-card model in certain kindergarten-to-Grade 9 schools this fall.

While there's been some "pushback" against the changes, Litke said the model actually intends to provide more information to a child's future instructors by breaking down specific strengths and weaknesses within a certain subject.

For example, a child may be "proficient" in their multiplication tables but only "beginning" when it comes to geometry taught in his or her Grade 6 math class.

"I don't know if it's a direct relationship, but over the past three years our (provincial) achievement scores have gone up significantly," Litke added.

But for Bahr, a mother of three, it all comes down to coddling children too much.

"We don't really want to tell anybody that they're not doing well," she said. "With my daughter in junior high, if there's a deadline for an assignment and then two weeks later you still haven't turned it in, there's no consequence."

While Foothills School Division uses "beginning," "acceptable," "proficient" and "mastery" to assess its students, the CBE's terminology will consist of "exemplary," "evident," "emerging" and "support required."

Wanted: No coddling

"To me, as a parent, if my child's not doing their work and they deserve a zero, then give them a zero." Michelle Bahr, Okotoks mother

Breckyn Bahr, 8, goes to school at Dr. Morris Gibson in Okotoks, which has a word-grading system similar to the one being proposed by the Calgary Board of Education. Mother Michelle doesn't agree with the changes. DARREN KRAUSE/METRO

'Outcomes-based' focus

Report-card changes part of education 'evolution': CBE

Contentious changes to report cards that have drummed up debate among Calgary public school parents will likely be the norm sooner rather than later across the province, says a top official.

Naomi Johnson, chief superintendent with the Calgary Board of Education, said the word-based assessment being tested this fall in a pilot project at some schools are reflective of the "outcomes-based" focus outlined in Inspiring Education — a document developed by the province that envisions what learning will look like come 2030.

"It's an evolution of what we know about learning and how best to take the kid to the next level," Johnson said Thursday during her first interview since reports of the proposed changes surfaced.

But while Johnson said the province is putting pressure on to move toward new assessment models, Alberta Education spokesperson Leanne Niblock said all final decisions on the matter will be left at the school-board level. JEREMY NOLAIS/METRO

Janel Nadeau suffered a stroke 12 years ago, but has made a remarkable recovery. She is now a physician at 31 years old. ROBSON FLETCHER/METRO

Nearly a neurologist after stroke at 19

Janel Nadeau. Calgary physician hopes to clear up the misconceptions about life after a stroke

robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

As an active, non-smoking 19-year-old, Janel Nadeau didn't fit the typical profile of a stroke victim, which made it all the more difficult to fathom why she suddenly slumped over one night and found herself unable to speak.

"I just didn't believe it," she said. "The only thing I had heard about strokes before was that it happens to old people."

Apart from being "very, very, very confused," Nadeau said she was unable to respond properly to doctors' questions and her "entire right side was just dead to the world."

However, several months of intensive rehabilitation led to a remarkable recovery, and she quickly returned to her studies at Queen's University — but with a new passion to pursue medicine.

Now 31 and a physician, Nadeau is working on a specialty in neurology, and says her own experiences led to a fascination with the brain.

She also runs a support group for young survivors of strokes, whose numbers are greater than many realize.

"It's widely misunderstood," said Dr. Michael Hill, who treated Nadeau after her stroke.

Roughly 15 to 20 per cent of strokes happen in people under the age of 50, Hill noted, with an incidence of about 10 to 15 per 100,000 in Nadeau's age group.

"Stroke is still the most common major neurological illness in all age groups — including babies," he said.

Another misconception, Hill added, is that once you have a stroke, you'll never live a normal life again.

"It takes a hell of a long time, and you may not get back to the place you were before, but you can still improve," he said.

Nadeau said the opposite misunderstanding has also been "an overarching theme" in her support group — people who assume stroke victims are totally fine after they recover.

"Your brain is never the same," she said, noting her memory and math skills suffered greatly, and she had to "completely change" the way she learns.

Nadeau now plans to steer her medical career toward working with patients who have suffered brain injuries.

"I really enjoy getting to know them," she said. "I like to think that my first-hand experience will give me some empathy."

By the numbers

- 315,000. The number of Canadians currently living with the after-effects of a stroke, according to the Heart and Stroke Foundation.
- 50,000. The estimated number of strokes in Canada each year, or one stroke every 10 minutes.
- Six per cent. Stroke is the third leading cause of death in Canada, accounting for six per cent of all deaths.

Arts. Culture minister urges universities to 'rethink' program cuts

Alberta's culture minister hopes Calgary's two major universities will turn back the clock and revisit planned enrolment cuts and program suspensions in their fine-arts programs.

Heather Klimchuk's comments on Thursday came one day after she and hundreds of others packed into Max Bell Theatre to protest what one advocate described as "death by a thousand cuts."

Both the University of Calgary and Mount Royal University will trim the greatest number of students from arts offerings as they move to balance their books in the wake of a seven percent cut to provincial post-secondary funding.

"What really concerns me is when culture or arts programs are the No. 1 item when tough choices have to be made," Klimchuk said. "That, to me, is sometimes an easy way out."

The minister noted that suspensions of Mount Royal's theatre and music performance programs are only solidified for one year and an actual removal of them from the institution's course calendar will require approval from Advanced Education Minister Thomas Lukaszuk.

Alec Blair, who attended the Max Bell Theatre rally Wednesday night, said the suspensions are going to have "a bigger impact to our overall city than anybody really realizes."

JEREMY NOLAIS, WITH FILES FROM ROBSON FLETCHER/METRO

Impacts

Arts cuts at Calgary universities:

- Mount Royal. Suspended theatre arts and music programs. Each admit about 40 students annually.
- University of Calgary. Will accept 200 fewer students in the Faculty of Arts this fall.

'Unwanted guest.' Arrest made following Bow building evacuation

A man has been charged with two counts of mischief after The Bow in downtown Calgary was evacuated this week.

Police responded to The Bow on Tuesday just before 4 p.m. after building security reported a man in the ladies washroom on the 55th floor. He allegedly pushed past guards and uttered threats. Guards believed he was wielding a knife as well.

A smoke alarm was also pulled and The Bow was evacuated.

Officers searched the entire building but were unable to locate the man. He was later identified using CCTV footage.

On Wednesday, the Westin Hotel in downtown Calgary reported an "unwanted guest." Police responded and arrested the man, and determined he was the same person from The Bow.

Calgarian Tyler Judin Berg, 26, is facing two counts of mischief in relations to the two incidents. He was released and is expected to appear in court on July 4.

Hundreds evacuated from University of Calgary due to natural-gas leak

A damaged gas line led to hundreds being evacuated at the University of Calgary on Thursday.

Fire crews were called to the Teaching Research and Wellness Building at about 1 p.m. over reports of a smell of natural gas.

It was determined the natural gas was coming from a supply line that was being used by contractors.

The line was shut off and the building was ventilated. Each floor was checked with air-monitoring equipment before evacuees were allowed back inside.

According to the Calgary Fire Department, the evacuation lasted just over an hour and no injuries were reported.

Public sessions to be held on changes to information-access law

The Alberta government plans to hit the road for six weeks this summer to get input on changes to its freedom-of-information law.

The Liberals say the hearings are a waste since an all-party legislature committee reviewed the rules two years ago and made 24 recommendations that have been ignored.

Don Scott, associate minister in charge of the file, says the government's public-information sessions will run between now until the end of July. The review is to focus on how to make freedom-of-information rules more user-friendly.

Feedback is to be compiled into a report that will be made public.

Liberal critic Laurie Blakeman says Scott is either not aware of the earlier review's report or is just looking for something to do to keep busy this summer. METRO

Floods. Hundreds ordered to leave homes in Fort McMurray

More people have been ordered out of their homes in northeastern Alberta due to flooding.

The Regional Municipality of Wood Buffalo ordered 340 residents in Grayling Terrace in Fort McMurray to pack belongings and leave.

Officials say heavy rainfall is expected through the next 48 hours and erosion of the banks of the overflowing Hangingstone River poses a danger.

As well, officials have ordered 78 residents of Draper Road to leave because the most southerly portion of the street is rapidly deteriorating and could soon become impassable.

Officials say residents will be transported to the emergency reception centre at Frank Lacroix Arena. A local state of emergency remains in effect.

Residents of 69 homes in the Ptarmigan Court Trailer Park were ordered out several days ago.

Boil-water advisories were in place for two days, but on Thursday afternoon, they were lifted for the Waterways area.

BELTLINE BELLYACHERS NEED TO STOP WHINING TO CITY COUNCIL

IN DEFENCE OF Mike Morrison
calgary@metronews.ca

Walk in the park

If you live in an urban area and are greatly concerned about limited parking or occasional noise, then maybe you shouldn't live there. That's like booking a hotel room in Times Square and then complaining that the lights are too bright.

Growing up in my house, there was a lot of tattletaling. If someone hit you or didn't share with you, in my eyes, being a kid allowed you to run to Mom or Dad and whine until you got either an apology or the much-sought-after toy. Both gratifying (to the whiner) and annoying (to everyone else), it was an experience reserved exclusively for childhood — or so I had thought.

This week, I've noticed that the unprecedented development in the Beltline area has seemingly caused an entitled group of residents to run repeatedly to city hall, complaining about the exciting growth around them. This week, city council thankfully approved a 22-storey tower that will provide much-needed apartments for the increasingly tight rental market, this despite the fact that area residents ridiculously expressed concerns about the building's potential shadows.

Unfortunately, it was a short-lived victory for proponents of Calgary becoming a world-class city, because the next day, after complaints and costly studies, city council unanimously voted to essentially stunt the growth of 17 Avenue S.W., limiting the number of bars that can open on the Red Mile. In a world of unstable economies and Calgarians moving farther and farther from the downtown core, straining our infrastructure, we are apparently now telling potential business owners, "Thanks for your enthusiasm — we're not interested."

Like tattletaling, the practice of running to city council to complain about things that are completely within your control is becoming more and more annoying. If you live in an urban area and are greatly concerned about limited parking or occasional noise, then maybe you shouldn't live there. That's like booking a hotel room in Times Square and then complaining that the lights are too bright.

It's both confusing and frustrating that anyone would think stunting the growth of the burgeoning area is a good idea. The supposed fear is that, without regulation, the Red Mile will quickly transform into the now-defunct Electric Avenue. But instead of appeasing a small, yet vocal, group, the city should let the market decide.

Obviously, 17 Avenue can't be completely made up of restaurants and bars. The good ones will attract customers, while the others will close and make way for other interesting businesses. If people want to spend their time and money on 17 Avenue, why does the city think they have to step in and change it? If the area becomes too regulated, businesses and their customers will just go elsewhere. After all, just look at the resurgence that's happening on 10 Avenue S.W.

There's lots of great perks about living in the inner city. It's too bad it might all be ruined by a group of people who never did grow up.

Free the Fuzz fundraiser returns

Special Olympics. Calgarians can donate to the cause at two city Walmarts

ALLISON PARDER

The roofs of two Calgary Walmarts will be home for the next four days to some charity-driven police officers, as part of the 10th annual Free the Fuzz fundraiser.

The event is in support of the Special Olympics and is sponsored by the Alberta Law Enforcement Torch Run and Walmart Canada.

"This is one of my favourite Torch Run events," said Brandon Watt, a correctional peace officer who was camping out for his second year. "Seeing what this means to the athletes, it makes me want to do this every year."

The Northland Village Mall and Deerfoot Mall Walmart locations will both be hosting the rooftop sleepovers, which started Thursday and run until Sunday. Volunteers will be at both locations selling T-shirts, hot dogs and pop in support of the Special Olympics.

"Four days is a long time, but it's for a great cause," said Const. Russ Wong, who is staying atop the roof for his first time. "We love the athletes."

Fight the Bite. Martial arts course aims to help you survive zombie apocalypse

You're out of bullets and the zombies keeping coming.

Blade in hand, will you stand strong like Michonne?

If the aforementioned Walking Dead reference didn't resonate, the zombie-themed Fight the Bite self-defence course being offered by the Forge Western Martial Arts may not be your cup of tea.

For everyone else, however, it represents a chance to tango with some flesh-eaters, all while learning real-world ways to protect yourself, according to instructor and course creator Tim Holter. "I am into the zombie thing just like so many others," he said. "I had always wanted to offer a self-defence course and was driving home one day thinking of how to appeal to a wider audience."

Now, the Forge has offered up three Fight the Bite courses, believed to be the only of their kind in North America, and is planning a fourth in July.

Holter blends his western martial-arts style with some introductory knife defence and swordsmanship techniques.

The authenticity of the undead theme is kept front of mind — Holter brings in a professional makeup artist to touch up his undead volunteers and has developed a full backstory. Willing participants are known simply as the DUDES (Dead Undead Deanimation and Eradication Specialists).

Catherine Lempke played the role of zombie at a recent Fight The Bite event. CONTRIBUTED BY TIM HOLTER

Gareth Jones has played the role of zombie at Fight the Bite. He said the event's theme helps break down any fears new martial artists have about taking on someone bigger than them.

"It kind of dehumanizes things a little bit," Jones said. "Self-defence is all about protecting yourself and the people you care about ... if somebody attacks you in the street, you don't want to stop and say you're sorry."

Runners to do Loops for the Troops

Father's Day will once again be celebrated with a run and walk to benefit Canada's military men and women.

The Loops for the Troops run and walk began in honour of Nathan Hornburg, a member of the King's Own Calgary Regiment who was killed in the line of duty in Afghanistan in 2007.

His father, Michael Hornburg, began the five and 10 km race in 2008 and chose to host the event on Father's Day every year, as Nathan was born on Father's Day in 1983. The race takes place this Sunday at North Glenmore Park from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The proceeds from the event will go towards military organizations such as the Royal Alberta United Services Institute. Part of the proceeds will also support services such as the Legion Poppy Fund and the Calgary Military Family Resource Centre. For more, visit loopsforthetroops.ca. METRO

Turkish PM demands an end to occupation of park

Protest. But Erdogan agrees to meet with protesters in a sign he might negotiate

Turkey's prime minister issued a "final warning" to protesters on Thursday, demanding they end their occupation of a park next to Istanbul's Taksim Square that has ignited the largest political crisis of his 10-year rule.

Despite the ultimatum by Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan, thousands of activists camping out in Gezi Park dug in for a potential culmination of their two-week standoff with authorities.

A violent police crackdown May 31 on a small sit-in to protect trees in Gezi Park sparked the protests that spread to dozens of cities. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Peace over violence?

- Erdogan was to meet late Thursday night with representatives of the protesters, including Taksim Solidarity. But that group does not speak for the thousands of protesters camping out in the park, so even if a deal is reached the sit-in may not end.

Cops raid PM's office building, arrest senior aide

The anti-organized crime unit in the Czech Republic has carried out raids at the Office of the Government, where Prime Minister Petr Necas is based, and at the Defence Ministry and other places across the country, police said on Thursday.

In comments to journalists, Necas confirmed that Jana Nagyova, the director of his office, was among those arrested. He said he would stand by her.

"At the moment, I have no information that would prove any criminal activity of my collaborators," Necas said.

Police spokesman Pavel Hantak declined to identify any of those arrested.

Necas called on the police and prosecutors to "immediately give reasons for such a massive action."

The Social Democrats, the main opposition party, called for Necas to resign. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Russia. Putin considers dispute with U.S. over manuscripts to be done

Russian President Vladimir Putin says he considers a dispute with the United States over an archive of Jewish manuscripts to be a dead issue.

A U.S. judge in January ordered that Russia pay $50,000 a day until it turns over the so-called Schneerson Collection of books and documents to Chabad Lubavitch, a Hasidic movement headquartered in Brooklyn, N.Y.

But Russia claims the collection is state property. On Thursday, Putin said he considers "the question of the Schneerson library to be closed." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Crews start cleanup work on B.C. oil spill

Oil spill response teams were at work Thursday containing and cleaning up a spill of light crude from Kinder Morgan's Trans-Mountain pipeline in the B.C. Interior, just weeks after the company officially filed plans for a controversial expansion of the line.

The National Energy Board said initial estimates were that the spill was small, and the public and the environment were not at risk.

The energy watchdog said it doesn't yet know the size of the leak, which took place on Crown land. Calgary-based Kinder Morgan says only about two cubic metres, or 12 barrels, of light crude was detected. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mulcair apologizes for failing to stop at security checkpoint

Questions raised over Alberta spill

Big impact. First Nations community concerned over effect on environment

Big spill

- The spill covered 42 hectares of land.
- One spill last June near Sundre fouled the Red Deer River after about 475,000 litres of oil spilled.

A First Nation wants answers from a Texas-based oil company after a pipeline spilled 9.5 million litres of industrial waste water in northern Alberta.

Dene Tha' leaders are to meet Monday with Apache Canada Ltd. officials in the remote community of Assumption. Sidney Chambaud, a band councillor, said they want more information about what happened and what the company is going to do about it.

"There are wildlife impacts and water and land impacts," Chambaud said in an interview Thursday.

"Right now within that area the trees, the vegetation and the soil are dead. The water is contaminated."

The Energy Resources Conservation Board has said the spill of water containing salt, oil and minerals was first reported on June 1, but the board didn't learn about its size until Tuesday. Chambaud said the 42-hectare spill is so large it raises questions about how long the pipeline that carries water used in oil and natural-gas operations had been leaking. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Deadly blast shakes Louisiana

A ground-rattling explosion Thursday at a chemical plant in Louisiana ignited a fire that killed at least one person and injured dozens of others, authorities said. Louisiana's health department said 73 people were treated at hospitals for injuries ranging from minor to critical following the Thursday morning explosion. State police Capt. Doug Cain said a body was found by hazardous materials crews going through the aftermath of the blast at the facility owned by The Williams Companies Inc., based in Tulsa, Okla. Huge Toronto guns, drugs raid reaches Alberta

Project Traveller.
Toronto's police chief refuses to rule out possibility evidence collected in raid related to mayor

Toronto police using surveillance techniques were "investigating the existence" of an alleged crack-cocaine video linked to Mayor Rob Ford several weeks before the story first surfaced, CTV News reported Thursday in the wake of a massive, multi-city police drugs and guns sweep.

The broadcaster quoted a "highly placed source" as confirming that "persons of interest discussed that video in detail, and referred to the mayor's alleged presence in the video."

The disclosure came as Toronto Police Chief Bill Blair announced 43 people had been arrested, 40 firearms seized and $3 million of drugs confiscated in early-morning raids concentrated on a Dixon Road complex, a cluster of apartment towers considered to be ground zero for the Ford video scandal.

Nineteen people in Toronto and nine in Windsor, Ont., were charged as part of a year-long police and border security investigation code-named Project Traveller, Blair said at a noon news conference.

He declined to answer any questions about Ford's connection to the evidence, what evidence was seized, how it was obtained or about a home involved in the raids where a man photographed with Ford lived. The only place for the legal disclosure is in a court of law," he said. "All of the evidence has been secured and it will come out in court where it belongs. We will not jeopardize this case."

The Rexdale home of Muhammad Khattak, one of the young men pictured with Ford outside a suspected crack house, was part of the raids.

Sources earlier told Torstar that Ford had told staff he knew exactly where the video, which appeared to show him smoking crack cocaine, could be found: 1701 and 1703 at a Dixon Road apartment complex that was the target of the pre-dawn raids.

The mayor has said publicly that he doesn't believe the video exists.

"Project Traveller is a very complex investigation" involving a gang called the Dixon City Bloods or Dixon Goonies that attempted to control guns and drug trafficking in Toronto's Dixon Road, Kipling Avenue and Islington Avenue area, Toronto Deputy Police Chief Mark Saunders said at a news conference Thursday. Their network extended to Edmonton and had operated since 2006, he said.

Edmonton police confirmed that officers executed search warrants Thursday morning, but would not say where or if anyone was arrested.

A spokesperson for the Edmonton police said that the investigation is being led by the Toronto Police Service and that officers in Edmonton were only assisting.

VIA Rail averts strike with tentative deal

No details released. Agreement reached after tense, round-the-clock negotiations.

The Canadian Auto Workers union says it has reached a tentative deal with VIA Rail.

It followed days of tense, round-the-clock negotiations in Montreal and averted a strike that was set to begin just after midnight.

The union had sounded pessimistic on Thursday evening, saying the two sides were far apart.

No details of the tentative settlement were released. Ratification votes are being scheduled.

The CAW represents about 2,000 customer service, onboard service and maintenance workers at VIA Rail.

VIA Rail presented its latest proposal Wednesday, offering wage increases of two per cent every year for three years.

But the offer also included higher employee contributions to the pension plan that the union says would result in members taking home less money, not more.

VIA said its employees need to contribute more to the pension because it currently faces a $419-million deficit.

"There are no major concessions that are being asked of current full-time employees, except to have them help maintain the current pension plan by increasing their contributions," VIA spokeswoman Mylene Belanger said on Thursday.

VIA Rail laid out a contingency plan last week in the event of a strike.

Toews: Canada still a 'priority target' for al-Qaida

Al-Qaida remains Canada's biggest terrorist threat even though the group has weakened in recent years, Public Safety Minister Vic Toews said on Thursday.

"Global violent extremist groups, such as al-Qaida, have been the leading terrorist threat to Canada for many years — this has not changed," Toews said. "Canada is still a priority target." THE CANADIAN PRESS

India. Suspected rebels kill 3 in attack on train

Dozens of suspected Maoist rebels fired at a passenger train passing through their stronghold in eastern India on Thursday, killing three people and injuring two others, police said.

About 100 attackers surrounded the train carrying 1,500 people near Jamui, a small town in Bihar state, police said. One of the two drivers stopped the train on seeing the suspected rebels and fled, an officer said.

The dead were a security guard and two passengers. The other train driver suffered bullet wounds.

The attackers fled into a forested area after security guards on the train fired back. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Maoists

- The rebels operate in 20 of India's 28 states, have thousands of fighters, and claim inspiration from Chinese revolutionary leader Mao Zedong.
- They have been fighting for more than 40 years, demanding land and jobs for impoverished tribal communities they say are ignored by the government.

UN report

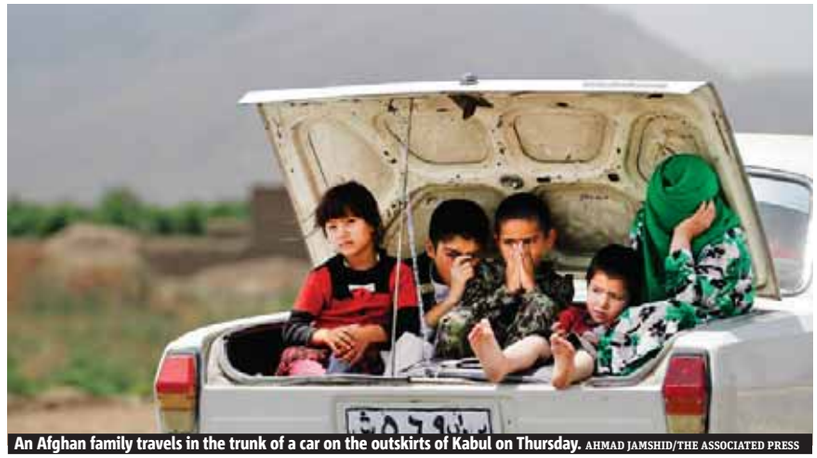
Squeeze in — world's population growing

The United Nations forecast Thursday that the world's population will increase from 7.2 billion today to 8.1 billion in 2025, with most growth in developing countries and more than half in Africa. By 2050, it will reach 9.6 billion.

India's population is expected to surpass China's around 2028 when both will have around 1.45 billion, the World Population Prospects report said. China's population is expected to start decreasing after 2030, possibly falling to 1.1 billion in 2100. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More Afghan kids becoming casualties of war: UNICEF

Taliban blamed. Figures show 56% of child deaths caused by insurgents and 14% by security forces



An Afghan family travels in the trunk of a car on the outskirts of Kabul on Thursday. AHMAD JAMSHID/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The number of children killed and injured in Afghanistan's war has risen sharply this year, the UN Children's Fund said, calling the trend "unacceptable" and "very worrying."

At least 414 children were killed or injured in the first four months of this year, up 27 per cent over the same period the previous year, UNICEF said.

Of those, 121 children were killed and 293 were injured through April 30, UNICEF said in figures released Thursday. Roadside bombs and suicide attacks accounted for the largest number of casualties — 37 per cent — and the UN has particularly criticized the Taliban's use of indiscriminate weapons triggered by victims' stepping on or driving over a pressure plate as a possible war crime.

Violence is increasing overall in Afghanistan as the Taliban and other militants press an intense offensive against government targets as international troops hand over security to Afghans. The escalating attacks have caused civilian casualties to soar, including children.

Last week alone, a suicide attack near a school in the eastern province of Paktia killed nine children and wounded seven others, and a father and three children died when their vehicle hit a roadside bomb. And on June 6, an airstrike by military forces killed three children and injured seven in Kunar province. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Harper addresses trade with the U.K.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper reviews the guard of honour on Thursday at the Hotel National des Invalides in Paris. ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister Stephen Harper thanked British counterpart David Cameron for his "robust advocacy" of a free-trade pact between Canada and the European Union during his address on Thursday in London to British parliamentarians.

The half-hour speech, touching on everything from the economy to global security and the values Canada shares with the United Kingdom, included a pitch for the prized trade agreement long sought by Harper's Conservative government.

"It remains our hope that we will soon achieve a comprehensive economic and trade agreement with the European Union, Canada's second-largest trading partner after the United States," Harper said.

"For Canada, and for Great Britain as a member of the EU, this will be a historic step — a monumental one, in fact: A joint Canada-EU study has shown that a commercial agreement of this type would increase two-way trade by 20 per cent."

Canadian negotiators are under growing pressure to broker a deal with the Europeans before they turn their attention to free-trade talks with the United States. Among the issues believed to be on the table are financial services, Canadian beef exports, procurement limits for provinces and municipalities and drug-patent protection.

However, Harper insisted this week that an "artificial timeline" will not loom over the talks, and that a deal will not be signed unless it is in Canada's best interests.

Ireland. Hospital bungled miscarrying case: Experts

Procedure questioned

The legal limbo has left Irish maternity hospitals and obstetricians to guess when they could perform an abortion to save a woman's life without facing the risk of a murder charge.

A miscarrying woman who died in an Irish hospital should have had her blood poisoning detected much sooner and been offered an abortion to improve her odds of survival, an experts' report concluded Thursday in a case that is forcing Ireland to modernize its abortion laws.

The 108-page report into the October death of Savita Halappanavar documented what the lead investigator described as "a cascade of mistakes" overshadowed by officials' refusal to remove the fetus until its heart stopped beating.

That took four days. By then, the report found, the woman's ill-diagnosed sepsis from a ruptured uterus already had reached lethal levels.

"If it was my case, I would have terminated the pregnancy," said Dr. Sabaratnam Arulkumaran, a London professor of obstetrics and gynecology who led the seven-month probe. The five investigators found that a chain of doctors and nurses all failed to take proactive steps to identify and halt the spread of infection throughout her body.

The report found that when Halappanavar, a 31-year-old Indian dentist living in the western city of Galway, was hospitalized for back pain 17 weeks into her pregnancy, doctors identified she was miscarrying and the fetus could not survive.

But they consistently missed evidence for days pointing to an existing case of sepsis, or blood poisoning, as the cause. Blood-test results were left uninspected and successive shifts failed to read earlier medical notes as vital signs worsened.

The report found that doctors placed too much emphasis on measuring the fetus' heartbeat and too little on investigating why Halappanavar's white blood-cell count was jumping and her blood pressure was falling. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vatican City

Remark criticized

The UN goodwill ambassador for eliminating leprosy has written to Pope Francis complaining about his recent comment that careerism among Catholic Church officials was "a leprosy." In a letter to Francis, Ambassador Yohei Sasakawa wrote that such remarks can reinforce discrimination. He feared the pope's comments could have a big impact in South America, where there are more cases of the illness.

Firms can't patent isolated human genes, U.S. Supreme Court rules

Washington. Decision covers breast-cancer test brought into public eye by Angelina Jolie's double mastectomy

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled companies cannot patent parts of naturally-occurring human genes, a decision with the potential to profoundly affect the emerging and lucrative medical and biotechnology industries.

The high court's unanimous judgment reverses three decades of patent awards by government officials. It throws out patents held by Salt Lake City-based Myriad Genetics Inc. on an increasingly popular breast cancer test brought into the public eye recently by actress Angelina Jolie's revelation that she had a double mastectomy because of one of the genes involved in this case.

Justice Clarence Thomas, who wrote the court's decision, said that Myriad's assertion — that the DNA it isolated from the body for its proprietary breast and ovarian cancer tests were patentable — had to be dismissed because it violates patent rules. The court has said that laws of nature, natural phenomena and abstract ideas are not patentable. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BRACAnalysis test

- Myriad Genetics has used its patent to come up with its BRACAnalysis test, which looks for mutations on the breast cancer predisposition gene, or BRCA. Those mutations are associated with much greater risks of breast and ovarian cancer.
- Angelina Jolie revealed last month that her mother died of ovarian cancer and that her maternal grandmother also had the disease.
- She said she carries a defective BRCA1 gene that puts her at high risk of developing breast and ovarian cancers, and her doctor said that the test that turned up the faulty gene link led Jolie to have both of her healthy breasts removed to try to avoid the same fate.

T. rex burger is now extinct

A fast-food restaurant in Manitoba has backtracked on its offer to make customers a burger fit for Fred Flintstone. Barb Barker, an administrative assistant for the Wendy's outlet in Brandon, said they have stopped selling their T. rex burger, consisting of nine quarter-pound patties held together by nine pieces of processed cheese and a flimsy bun. "For obvious reasons, Wendy's of Brandon neither condones nor promotes the idea of anyone consuming a nine-patty hamburger in one sitting," said Barker. REDDIT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

INNOVATIONS by Jayman

YOU HAVE TO BE KIDNEY-ING ME

THE METRO LIST

Neil Morton
metronews.ca

1 WWDC. Apple unveiled its latest products at the 2013 Worldwide Developers Conference (WWDC) in San Francisco this week. The best line of the conference came from Apple marketing exec Phil Schiller. After unveiling the radically redesigned Mac Pro, he said, "Can't innovate anymore, my a--." Great mantra.

2 @HillaryClinton. The former secretary of state unlocked her Twitter account this week, and her Twitter bio lists herself, among other things, as "hair icon," "pantsuit aficionado," "glass ceiling cracker" and "TBD." Now most have a sneaking suspicion that "TBD" means a 2016 presidential bid? In due time, she'll probably make it official. With a tweet.

3 Facebook #hashtags. Now that Facebook has begun to roll out clickable, searchable hashtags (à la Twitter and Instagram) to help users better find content on the social platform, it somehow feels that hashtags have hit their tipping point. #Soon, #we'll #be #using #them #in #every #sentence #we #write. #And #in #everyday #conversation.

4 Covet Garden. This indie Canadian online decor magazine is using the crowd-funding site Indiegogo to help raise money to do a special print issue, Covet Garden Home. Their goal is $18K, and they've raised about $14K with three weeks left in the campaign. Ingenuity is the key in this economy for startups, and this is another great example of using social media to make a dream happen. Now.

5 Twerking. This latest dancing craze (Harlem Shake is so last month) got another huge shake this week when Miley Cyrus (rumoured new Justin Bieber squeeze) wiggled her hips and butt in the bouncy up-and-down motion on stage at a Juicy J concert. I would twerk for you, but it would totally ruin your day — and this latest online meme sensation.

6 Nadal's dramatic win. Rafael Nadal won a record-setting eighth French Open title Sunday. The only thing that almost prevented him from winning wasn't his opponent David Ferrer, but a shirtless protester with a white mask holding a lighted flare who jumped out of the stands and interrupted the match. Nadal was briefly rattled but went on to win in straight sets.

7 Real Housewives of Vancouver. The first Canadian version of the hit American franchise made it through two seasons, but won't have a third as Slice Canada has put it on hiatus. One of the problems might have been that the super-rich wives weren't superficial or plastic or vapid enough for viewers compared to their American ilk. Which is saying a lot.

8 Taylor Swift. The teeny-bopper sensation is in Toronto Friday and Saturday to begin the Canadian leg of the Red Tour, before heading west for Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver. Now my wife and daughters will be hitting one of the T.O. shows, but I couldn't bear the thought of singing along to We Are Never Ever Getting Back Together with thousands of tweens.

9 Craigslist. It's known for local classifieds and jobs ads, but sometimes gets wackier. Like this week when a 23-year-old man from Cobourg, Ont., advertised his kidney there. "You can have the left or right, they both work perfectly. I'm in shape and quit smoking a year ago. I'm being more than serious about this, asking $20,000... THIS IS 100% SERIOUS !!!" Enough said.

10 Fired over Skype. The Edmonton Oilers announced Dallas Eakins as their new head coach this week (great hire), but handled the firing of their former coach in a rather odd way. While vacationing in Switzerland, Ralph Krueger was sacked over Skype by GM Craig MacTavish. At least it wasn't by a Facebook wall post.

11 Bowie. The Art Gallery of Ontario made the epic announcement that the exhibition David Bowie will arrive there this fall straight from London's Victoria and Albert Museum. It includes the icon's original stage costumes, instruments, album art, handwritten set lists and lyrics, and more. I already have the opening day, Sept. 25, marked on my calendar.

12 The Purge. This low-budget horror film — it cost about $3 million to make — starring Ethan Hawke, demolished everything else at the box office, taking in $36.4 million. Most of it was filmed in a house. I have a great idea for an indie horror to be shot in the outhouse at my in-laws cottage. All I need is $1.5 million, a camera, a flashlight, a bear and some toilet paper.

Impromptu diving show impresses

These dolphins are showing off a new cross-discipline sport: surfing-meets-synchronized diving.

The pod of 30 bottlenose dolphins were spotted jumping out of the back of breaking waves that rolled into the coast. Photographer Mark van Coller took the shot on the east coast of South Africa, near Port St. Johns.

Surf's up, dolphins

MARK VAN COLLER

How did you capture this?
It was sardine season on the east coast, so many predatory marine animals were in the region hunting. Myself and five others took a boat out to witness the animals in motion.

Synopsis

The story begins on Krypton, as all good Superman origin stories must. To save his son Kal-El from perishing on the doomed planet, Jor-El (Russell Crowe) rockets him off to a safe haven — Earth. There he is raised by Ma and Pa Kent, (Diane Lane and Kevin Costner), humble farmers who raise Clark Kent (Henry Cavill) as their own and keep his alien heritage a secret, but his extraordinary powers are exposed when a snoopy reporter (Amy Adams) digs into his life and the last surviving Kryptonians, led by General Zod (Michael Shannon) try and invade the planet.

Henry Cavill is sufficiently square-jawed and blue-eyed to play Superman, but Amy Adams lacks the pluck of Lois Lane. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Up, up and ... it's OK

Man of Steel.

Superman origin story has too much bang and not enough phone booths

Richard: Mark, Man of Steel plays kind of like a Nirvana song. It starts off quiet, then gets loud, then quiet again and then REALLY loud. Thing is Nirvana songs were usually under four minutes and this movie clocks in at well over two hours. Much of it is entertaining, but I have to say my eyeballs felt scorched after the protracted blow-'em-up scene that eats up much of the last 45 minutes of the movie. It's all crash-boom-bang and not nearly as interesting as the stuff that preceded it.

Mark: Richard, I always liked the Superman movies — even the bad ones — for their charm. Although there's some good scenes toward the beginning of the movie, it becomes bombastic and self-righteous; way too serious for its own good. That 45-minute scene you're referring to made me long for headphones with Enya songs playing on a long loop. And I know it's an origin movie, but I longed for the comic contrast between Superman and his journalist alter ego Clark Kent, which is mostly missing from the movie. Then again, we no longer have phone booths. Any of the actors appeal to you, Richard?

RC: I thought Cavill was suitably square-jawed and blue-eyed enough to play the icon lead character and Michael Shannon brought the crazy (as usual for him) to Zod, but I was let down by two other leads. Russell Crowe was fine, although I couldn't help but imagine Ralph Fiennes really eating up the role of Jor-El. Finally, I'm not sure Amy Adams is plucky enough to play Lois Lane.

MB: Cavill was square — I mean — square-jawed, wasn't he? Crowe was fine, but somehow Kevin Costner got to me in a very sentimental turn as Clark's dad. As for Michael Shannon, I can only assume he was forced to overact at gunpoint, with lines like "Unleash the world machine!!!!" For a movie that cost a few hundred million dollars, it was often close to a Flash Gordon serial at times.

RC: I think I wanted more Flash Gordon and less of what was on the screen in front of me. It's an entertaining movie for much of its running time, but the word overkill comes to mind. I feel like less — shorter running time, fewer explosions, not as many fights — would have been more.

MB: And did you notice that so many of the action scenes had the same basic gimmick — concrete being torn up over and over again? And I had to laugh when the entire city of Metropolis is collapsing under alien attack and there are scenes of people just staring at the buildings falling around them. If I see one brick on the ground, I'm outta there!

How to be a superhero

Preparation. No need for a brain to be all brawn

Bruce Banner (The Hulk) is an ingenious scientist, Peter Parker (Spider-Man) is a whiz kid at school — even billionaire playboy Tony Stark (Iron Man) is a brilliant engineer. So to be a superhero you need to be a genius or have a PhD, right? Wrong. "Captain America wasn't a PhD. Most of the X-Men didn't have great educations particularly," says Marvel man Stan Lee, creator of all of the above.

THE HULK

Background. The past is passé

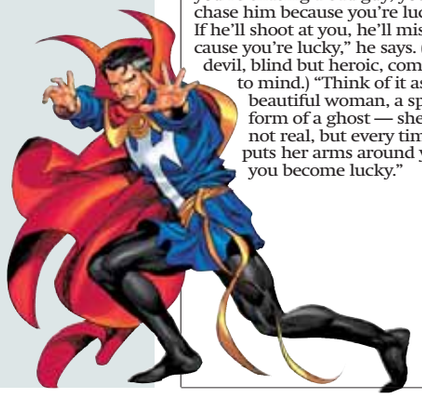
Some of our favourite superheroes brood over their dark past — Bruce Wayne (Batman) witnessed his parents' murder as a child, and Wolverine was a guinea pig in a secret government experiment that's mentally scarred him. Painful origins do make for an alluring character — so, would you embellish your own personal history to make your superhero stand out? "My advice would be forget the past," Lee says. "Think of the future, and think of all the good you can do with your superpower."

WOLVERINE

Name. Be original, somehow

He's been writing comic books for more than 70 years, has conjured up some 350 superheroes and villains, like Doctor Strange, but Lee still admits "coming up with a name is the most difficult part in creating a superhero. ... When I come up with a new character, I'll come up with a name that I think is great, and then I Google it and I'll see 500 names just like that for other characters," he says.

DOCTOR STRANGE



DAREDEVIL

Traits. It's all down to Lady Luck

"The one attribute that everybody would want to have is luck," says Lee. "If you're a superhero and you're chasing a bad guy, you'll chase him because you're lucky. If he'll shoot at you, he'll miss because you're lucky," he says. (Daredevil, blind but heroic, comes to mind.) "Think of it as a beautiful woman, a spectral form of a ghost — she's not real, but every time she puts her arms around you, you become lucky."

Finishing touches. An apt outfit ... and a fantastic catchphrase

Choosing the right costume depends on what superpower you possess, Lee reveals. "If you're going to be moving around a lot, something tight is the best. If your power is mental, you don't need a tight costume." And forget a histrionic, husky voice à la Batman. "The phrases a hero says are the things your audience will remember — if they're good." So, what would be a good one? "Look out behind you!" Lee cries. "Or there's another phrase of course: With great power comes great responsibility."

He may not be a baseball star, but his legs go on for days

Monsters University. Early audiences have warmed to Charlie Day's character in new animated film

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

As the furry purple oddball Art in Monsters University, Charlie Day walks away with nearly every scene he's in, which isn't surprising since his monster is mostly just a pair of legs with a face where the crotch would be.

Among early audiences, Art is fast becoming a favourite — or at least that's what people are telling Day.

"Well, people have been saying that to me, and I don't know what their ulterior motives are, but I appreciate it," Day tells Metro.

There is just something captivating about Art.
You know, he's a crazy guy. He's filled with the absurd non-sequiturs. He's positive, he's an optimist and he's been to jail. What's cooler than that? And then the best thing is you get to see what it would be like to be all legs. Legs for days, this guy.

How much were you involved in the design and development?
I did all the design myself. I did all the drawings, I did most of the movie (laughs). No, I did nothing. I did absolutely nothing. By the time I showed up here they had already animated a scene using lines from It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia with the character. I almost feel like they could've taken certain words that I've said from things and cobbled together the entire performance, but they were nice enough to let me do some of the work.

The sun is still shining...

Charlie Day got his start with the off-beat FX comedy It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia, and he has no plans of stopping the series now — at least not this year. "We're almost done filming the ninth season. Nine seasons," he says with eyes wide. "We were celebrating our 100th episode the other day. It's been a wonderful decade of a lot of laughs. We definitely are going to do a 10th season, and after that I don't know. It depends on if FX wants to keep it going or not. I think creatively we're open to it. I still feel like we're finding new and interesting things for these characters to do and say."

What was your own college experience like?
I didn't go to as large a school (as Monsters University), and there wasn't really much Greek life on campus. I went to a school called Merrimack College in North Andover, Mass., about 20 minutes or so north of Boston. I had a lot of friends and met new people and got new ideas and became a better thinker and a more well-rounded person up there. I loved it.

Did you start off college with one idea of what you were going to do with your life and end up with another?
Yes. Well … I was a huge baseball guy growing up, as was everyone in my town. I was passionate about it, I worked really hard at it and I was half-way decent at it, but not ultimately good enough. And by college I realized that it's not going to go any further, and then I started dabbling in acting and the arts, and all that came much easier and more naturally to me (laughs).

Comedy

The Kings of Summer

Director. Jordan Vogt-Roberts

Stars. Nick Robinson, Gabriel Basso, Moises Arias

The story of three teenage friends who build a ramshackle clubhouse in the woods, The Kings of Summer doesn't break much ground in the adolescent coming of age genre — it just does it really well. Two parts teen comedy, one part slice-of-life drama, think of it as Stand by Me meets Superbad. The kids might be a little too good looking and witty, but the charming characters and constant laughs are a winning combo. COLIN MCNEIL

Drama

Renoir

Director. Gilles Bourdos

Stars. Michel Bouquet

This biopic focuses on famous Impressionist painter Pierre-Auguste Renoir and his legendary filmmaker son Jean Renoir during the height of the First World War. When a model mysteriously arrives at the family estate, she becomes the (persistently naked) muse of both father and son. Renoir may have a slightly staid sense of momentum but an accomplished cast and gorgeous photography lend itself to this tribute to two of France's celebrated geniuses. STEVE GOW

Music. Rosanne Cash talks about her new album, interacting with fans on Twitter and how her dad will tour again

ALISON BOWEN
Metro World News

An Oscar-nominated film and countless recordings have been created to honour country great Johnny Cash, but this will be the first time he travels the world forever.

Last week, the United States Postal Service unveiled a Forever stamp honouring him in their Music Icons series.

His daughter, Rosanne Cash, says the idea of her father's face adorning letters around the world is an exciting honour.

"It would be so special to him," she says. "He's now going to be touring the planet forever. ... And that's what he loved, he loved touring."

She adds, "It's the ultimate American honour, in a way."

Although the stamp was a nod to letters, Rosanne is active on a new communication tool: Twitter, where she interacts as @rosannecash with other musicians, fans and even someone who taught her to knit.

Her father, who never had an email account, would not be tweeting, she says.

"He was such a reflective person, and he enjoyed solitude a lot," she says of Johnny Cash.

Old and new

Looking back on her old discs and new projects.

- New album. Rosanne Cash has a new album coming out in January. She says it's about the South and her relationship with the region, partially inspired by Arkansas State University restoring her father's boyhood home. "My heart started to swell," she says. The region is "really the bed of where this music came from. The connection to that music is so profound to me."
- Her last record. Black Cadillac was a "totally different mindset," she says. "It was such a painful process, painful and liberating. ... This had the richness of going that deep into the past and the future ... and it didn't have the heaviness of heart that Black Cadillac had." She adds, "There's something very celebratory about it, even though some of the songs are very dark."

Luxury Home, Reno and Lifestyle Show, Experience Calgary's best!

Enter to win a Corvette, or a houseboat trip!

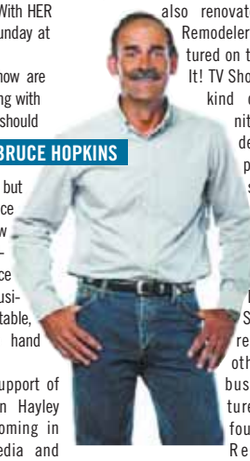
Cancel your weekend plans! Calgary's most charismatic renovator is bringing Remodel It! TV to the Max Bell Centre, Friday to Sunday – June 14th to 16th. Bruce Hopkins and his team at The Remodelers have 'custom built' the first annual LUXURY HOME, RENO AND LIFESTYLE SHOW titled "Experience Calgary's Best!" featuring many of Calgary's premier home-improvement companies, and also showcasing lifestyle components.

You will be greeted with wine and chocolate

"We wanted to create a "one off" home show without thirty copies of the same thing – a show where vendors and potential clients can have a real conversation about their needs, in a more intimate environment" says Hopkins. "We are really excited to expand our business "family" to more of the Calgary community- it's a win-win." The show will have about ninety booths, some of which have been featured on Hopkins' hit reality renovation show Remodel It! (CTV - Sunday at 10 am), or Remodel It With HER hosted by Sue Deyell (CTV Sunday at 10:30 am.)

All the vendors in the show are accessible in Calgary, in keeping with Hopkins' belief that clients should be intimately involved in every step of their renovation and decision-making, but have expert advice and guidance close at hand. "The home show will allow renovation-savvy Calgarian's to put a name and face to some of the best in the business," says Hopkins, "reputable, high-end suppliers that we hand-picked for the show."

This show is also in support of Canadian hockey Olympian Hayley Wickenheiser's Wickfest (coming in November) Remodel It Media and Productions LTD. is the main sponsor. You'll find jersey-clad young gals collecting the proceeds from the $5.00-parking at the home show this weekend, in aid of their upcoming international hockey festival, attracting young hockey players from as far away as the Czech Republic. "It's amazing to have Bruce's help, says Wickenheiser, (whose home was also renovated by The Remodelers and featured on the Remodel It! TV Show,) "It's the kind of community spirit we depend on to promote the sport."



BRUCE HOPKINS

The LUXURY HOME, RENO AND LIFESTYLE SHOW represents another unique business venture, Hopkins founded The Remodelers in 2003 after finding the outsourcing of trades "hit and miss", and very frustrating for clients. He then moved everything in house: clients visit a massive design centre and cabinet-making warehouse all under one roof. He's even been known to move clients into his own home when sawdust overtook theirs!

What began as his personal home reno almost two decades ago – has grown into a multi-million dollar company spearheaded by Hopkins' commitment to building personal, lasting, relationships based on his belief that life and business should ultimately be fun.

In 2007, Hopkins' brought the renovation story to life with his reality TV show. Naturally, it too was independently-produced, in-house, under the Boom City Productions banner.

In addition to the Luxury Home, Reno and Lifestyle Show, Hopkins' Remodel It Media and Productions Ltd, is launching an internet radio show featuring home-grown renovation "stars."

Grip It/Volto!

There's still no new Tool album in sight, so drummer Danny Carey is passing the time with his new band called Volto! An album called Incinate will be out later this month.

Twist and Turns/ Mumdance

Jack "Mumdance" Adams makes music that incorporates everything from shoegaze to dubstep. It's not for everyone, but it's different.

She Blinded Me with Science/ Thomas Dolby feat. Buzz Aldrin

A live performance of Dolby's 1982 hit with a cameo from the second man on the moon. It doesn't get much geek-cool than this.

10 must-see acts at Bonnaroo festival

The headliners usually get all the ink and this year's group at the Bonnaroo Music & Arts Festival is definitely ink-worthy. But check out these lesser known acts too

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Alt-J

This Mercury Prize-winning quartet plays angular pop songs that are oddly intoxicating. Like fellow Brits McCartney and Mumford, the group has a gift for sugary songs that are impossible to resist.

Action Bronson

The burly, bearded rapper from Queens is poised to release his major-label debut later this year and has been whipping up a frenzy in London before returning to the states for Bonnaroo.

Charli XCX

The alternapop princess has had the bloggers buzzing for a couple of years. Now she's attached to a worldwide hit — she features on Icona Pop's I Love It — and has the highest profile of her career.

Father John Misty

Former Fleet Foxes drummer Josh Tillman left the band and released his first solo album under this new moniker after several releases as J. Tillman.

HAIM

Los Angeles-based sisters Este, Danielle and Alana Haim form a girl group for the 21st century, mixing lush vocal harmonies with high energy. The group has won over a lot of influential fans.

Jason Isbell

The Alabama-raised, Nashville-based singer-songwriter is the Americana community's cause celeb du jour. He releases his new album Southeastern this week.

Japandroids

Just when you think the two-man band thing has run its course, up pops Vancouver-based Japandroids, a band guaranteed to generate more decibels per band member than any other on the farm.

Kacey Musgraves

Bonnaroo has had its share of edgy country acts over the years and Musgraves keeps the tradition rolling.

Portugal. The Man

This Portland-based band of spacey rockers has joined with producer Danger Mouse on its fun new album, Evil Friends.

Tame Impala

Australian rocker Kevin Parker is the premiere purveyor of freaky, fuzzed-out psychedelic rock at the moment.

Trouble Will Find Me, The National's new album, dropped Tuesday.
GETTY IMAGES

Trouble Will Find The National, but they find beauty within, too

Interview. Aaron Dessner, guitarist for The National, talks about the new album and what it's like working with his brother

PAT HEALY
Metro World News

Aaron Dessner is on drugs. The guitarist for The National had to push back this interview twice because he was visiting the doctor for a stiff neck, an occupational hazard, it turns out.

"I think it might have been from that six-hour Sorrow thing," he says, before adding, "We played the same song for six hours and my back was super tight from that and it never really relaxed."

Dessner, who, along with his brother Bryce, writes most of the music for the band, discusses the band's brilliant new Trouble Will Find Me album, which came out Tuesday.

How did you come to play Sorrow for six hours straight?

It was a collaboration with this Icelandic artist, Ragnar Kjaransson. He had approached MoMA about wanting to collaborate with us. He does a lot of performance art work with musicians. It's kind of all about repetition and how things change through repetition or take on deeper meaning. So he had this very compelling, charming letter that he wrote to us, and for some reason we were in the mood at that very moment, and we were like, "OK." And when we did it, it was amazing, but we were slightly dreading the whole thing.

There's a lot of dual voices going on with this album.

Making a statement

The defining statement of the album seems to be "everything that I love is on the table" from the song, Don't Swallow the Cap. Do you think that's true?

- Quote. "I think that's a good point. It's like he's laying it all out there. And I think in a way, lyrically, this record is the most verbose, and the most direct and personal, in places. And in a weird way it pretty much encapsulates everything we've ever done. So, yeah, I think that's fair to say that's a defining line."

We've always used other voices as kind of a silver lining.

The juxtaposition of other voices with Matt Berninger's voice makes Matt's voice richer, in a weird way, and more beautiful. So we're still doing that in this case, and there were a few places where we wanted female voices, kind of as characters, and as colour. So with Sharon (Van Etten) and Nona (Nona Marie Invie) and Annie (Clarke), we're fortunate enough to have all of these friends who have amazing voices, and also Richie (Reed Parry), who's on it, from Arcade Fire.

And we all sing also. I think it's just an evolution of trying to do that more.

You're involved in so much of the music. Do you and your brother have any involvement with the lyrics that Matt Berninger sings?

We do, but not a lot. If there's things that bother us, or if he's having trouble with something, then we'll talk about it.

I was actually there when he was recording a lot of the vocals, so there is some sort of back and forth.

10 years ago, a little show called Canadian Idol was born

Television. After a divisive beginning, Mulroney says 'we proved (critics) wrong'

Ben Mulroney was only 27 when he began host duties of the premier of Canadian Idol. HANDOUT

It was a decade ago this week that Canadian Idol debuted, and it was also something of a premiere for host Ben Mulroney.

Then only 27 and better-known to Canadians as the son of a former prime minister rather than a ubiquitous fixture of entertainment news coverage, Mulroney recalls watching the show's taped premiere at a friend's place with 10 or so others. Afterward, they hopped in a taxi and headed off to a midtown Toronto sports bar, and they were dropped off a small hike away.

"We had to walk about a block, and a car full of girls drove by and honked. And then two seconds later, a car full of guys drove by and heckled me," Mulroney recalled. "And I thought: 'OK. This is the new dynamic.'"

It wasn't only Mulroney's life that changed, of course.

Over its six-year run, Canadian Idol was fiercely criticized as a glorification of crass commercialism over artistry, as an uncreative (and un-Canadian) carbon copy of a hit international reality franchise and, eventually, as an ineffective star maker capable only of creating fleeting flashes rather than sustained heat.

While the debate has faded since the show was indefinitely "suspended" due to the chilly economic climate of 2008, those involved with its launch remember just how divisive Canadian Idol was.

"It was not a foregone conclusion it was going to be successful," recalled Mulroney. "If you look at the jaded, cynical members of the press ... they were convinced this was not a Canadian thing to do. 'We don't do stuff like this. ... We don't celebrate the way that the Americans do.'

"And yet we proved them wrong. But we had to fight very hard against that sentiment."

Back in spring 2003, American Idol was flying high. Following the surprise-smash initial run of episodes in 2002, the show had just wrapped its must-see second-season.

The show was so hot that even Justin Guarini appeared briefly marketable, with his debut solo record days from release when Canadian Idol launched.

The Idol format had already proved popular in various iterations around the world, but given the star-making turn from acidly acerbic British judge Simon Cowell on American Idol, it was obvious early on to executive producer John Brunton and his team at Insight Productions that assembling the judges would be crucial.

They settled on a four-person panel with three of those judges in familiar roles: husky-voiced belter Sass Jordan was the sympathetic, confidence-boosting artist on the panel (like an Earthbound Paula Abdul); promoter and manager Farley Flex was the forthright if generally positive industry insider — a la Randy Jackson; and entertainment lawyer Zack Werner was the Cowell-like outspoken bad boy, armed with a poison-tipped tongue and irreverent attitude toward the proceedings.

Jake Gold, the fourth judge who was best-known for steering the career of the Tragically Hip, among others, was blissfully free of any archetype.

The look of choice on Queen Street West in Toronto Sunday night might well be Thierry Lasry shades and drop-crotch pants as music fans gather for the block party of the year. Crossover K-Pop sensation PSY is sharing hosting duties at MuchMusic's annual MMVA bash along with VJ's Scott Willats and Lauren Toyota. Remember the Gentleman singer's style code: "dress classy to dance cheesy." Set the mood with the Red Carpet special at 8 p.m. ET and then the party airs live on MuchMusic, and on Fuse in the U.S. at 9 p.m. ET. Here's five reasons why you should tune in, or even better, turn up!

5 reasons to watch this year's MMVAs

Red carpet roll up

Arriving in style is a hallmark of the MMVAs. In past years we've had Billy Talent roll up atop a Second World War era Sherman Tank on loan from an Ontario museum, Simple Plan cruise up in a pink limousine with band members rocking short white shorts and midriff-baring tees, and Katy Perry serving up cool treats in an ice cream truck. When it comes to outlandish entrances, Marianas Trench, who leads the pack this year with six nomination nods, typically takes the cake. In past years, the Vancouver pop-rockers have come to the carpet in a hot tub, human-size hamster balls and even a mobile bouncy house.

Video of the year

This is the biggie. Could it go to nominations leader Marianas Trench for Desperate Measures, where frontman Josh Ramsay channels Tom Cruise circa Risky Business and Toy Story's Woody, or perhaps Drake reliving his coming up days and hamming it up at Shoppers Drug Mart in Started from the Bottom? The other contenders in the mix are Serena Ryder for Stompa, The Weeknd for Wicked Games, and Classified for Inner Ninja.

Taking to the stage

Artists leave it all on the stage at the MMVAs — from Avril Lavigne's cheek-revealing rendition of Complicated back in 2002 (which she had fun with the following year with some intentional mooning action) to Lady Gaga's electric medley a few years back that culminated with fireworks shooting out of her bustier. This year PSY, the master of cheesy dance moves, may treat us to the wild gyrations that accompany Gentleman, his viral smash — the video has more than 400 million YouTube views — or kick it relatively old school by social media standards with Gangnam Style. Regardless, the performance slate for the MMVAs is dripping with hot artists that will keep audiences moving. The lineup includes Demi Lovato, Armin Van Buuren featuring Trevor Guthrie, Ed Sheeran and Marianas Trench.

Billy Talent

The MMVAS have been kind to these Mississauga punk rockers in the past, feting them with 29 nominations and nine wins. But they may want to clear off some shelf space on the mantle. The video for Surprise Surprise is on the ballot in a trio of categories, so they're in spitting distance of surpassing Our Lady Peace's all-time record haul of 10 wins. Who is the queen of the MMVAs? Look no further than Avril Lavigne, who'll notch her fifth MMVA performance (the most of any artist) this year.

Handling hot hardware

Taylor Swift is sticking around town after a pair of sold out shows at the Rogers Centre to hand out an award. Among the presenters joining T-Swizzle in distributing MMVAs to their worthy recipients are a bevy of faces sure to illicit teen squeals when they take the stage: Teen Wolf's alpha heartthrob Tyler Hoechlin, Revenge's Joshua Bowman, Glee's Naya Rivera, Big Bang Theory's Kunal Nayyar, Arrow's Stephen Amell (pictured) and Suits' Patrick J. Adams, to name a few.

True Blood stardom means free food perks

Rob Kazinsky. British actor joins cast and talks about experience of shooting U.S. series

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

This season on True Blood, there's a new faerie in town with Rob Kazinsky's Ben Flynn, a supernatural love interest for Sookie Stackhouse (Anna Paquin).

The British actor is aware his introduction will likely rile some of the show's relationship-obsessed fans, but he's just happy to have a job that comes with free snacks.

So, any trepidation about coming on as a new love interest for Sookie?
I am 100 per cent certain that I am going to be absolutely hated by everyone. Team Eric's going to hate me, Team Bill's going to hate me, Team Alcide — they're all going to absolutely loathe this guy just because he's not them. And I am prepared for that backlash. However I think in time people will come to realize that Ben, for the first time, offers a chance at happiness that none of those guys could ever give her. He is essentially a much more honest and a much more accessible guy than everybody else. But that certainly doesn't mean he's boring.

How does this compare to your time on the British soap opera Eastenders?
Different worlds. Vastly different worlds. I did 254 episodes of Eastenders and averaged about 85 episodes a year, shooting anywhere between 30 and 50 pages of dialogue a day. And then this, we're doing 10 episodes a year, so it's a slightly different machine. (laughs) The whole way everything goes on here in America is very, very different to how it's run in England. The biggest difference to me is always craft services. Having free food on set is just the best thing that's ever happened to anybody ever.

Is craft service really not a thing in England?
For the BBC there's no such thing as crafty or free food. At Eastenders there wasn't, anyway. So having doughnuts on set? Wonderful. Fresh fruit all the time? Having a coffee machine instead of having to pay three pounds for your coffee every time you want one? Oh my God, it's great.

This is news to me. I feel like my only exposure to British TV production was Extras, which looked more in line with American setup.
I think that was the idea so that it would be universally sellable. I mean, my experience in England is fairly limited to the soap that I did and the one other TV show I did. The way they do it [in the U.S.], when I did Brothers and Sisters, Law & Order, everything, it's a much easier place to be offset, you know what I mean? There's much more to do when you're not working.

Martinez may be French, but Berry will have a Yankee doodle boy

Halle Berry is having a boy, and she's having him in the States. At least that's what her fiancé, Olivier Martinez, let slip to People magazine. "My son will be an American, but I remain French," Martinez said during the Champs-Elysées Film Festival in Paris this week. "I remain a Frenchman in America, but I adapt to American culture. I feel good there — but I'm still a foreigner."

Banal boat duty highlights redundancy of the Royals

ALEXANDRA CAVALLO
Metro World News

Evidence that the Royals are just redundant figureheads: one super important royal duty that the Duchess of Cambridge Kate Middleton had to take care of recently included blessing the newest ship in the Princess Cruises fleet.

The only woman capable of such a lofty task, the very pregnant Kate apparently smashed a giant champagne bottle on the cruise ship's helm in order to officially christen it "Royal Princess."

She then said "I name this ship Royal Princess. May God bless her and all who sail in her."

David Cameron must have been off on some sort of other really important business, because we find it hard to believe he would shirk a crucial political event like this of his own volition.

Take tatt! Styles and Bieber appear to be in an ink war

One Direction's Harry Styles is giving Justin Bieber a run for his money when it comes to accumulating body art. It's tough to say which 19-year-old pop star has more body art at this point, but Styles is at least being a bit bolder with his references: The Brit showed off a pair of George Michael-inspired ankle tattoos while out in Miami this week, according to the Daily Mail. Just above each foot, Styles has the words "Never gonna dance again" inscribed, referencing a lyric from the 1984 Wham! hit Careless Whisper. Your move, Bieber.

The steak house comes to dad this Father's Day

Dinner. Cook this twist on the Batman and Robin of manly fare — steak and potatoes

This recipe serves six. MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ingredients

- 4 tbsp extra-virgin olive oil
- 2 medium russet potatoes, peeled and coarsely grated
- Kosher salt and black pepper
- 1 medium shallot, minced
- 1 tbsp white wine vinegar
- 2 tbsp dry white wine
- 2 tsp dried tarragon
- 6 oz 1/3-less fat cream cheese (Neufchatel)
- 1 1/2 lbs flank steak, trimmed of any visible fat
- 1 1/2 lbs baby spinach leaves
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 tsp chopped fresh tarragon

1. Heat the oven to 350 F.

2. In nonstick skillet over medium-high, heat 1 tablespoon of the oil. Add grated potatoes, pressing down with spatula, then reduce heat to medium and cook until golden brown on bottom, 12 minutes. Remove skillet from heat. Set large dinner plate over skillet, then invert to transfer potatoes, browned side up, onto plate.

3. Return skillet to heat and add another 1/2 tablespoon of oil. Slide potatoes back into the skillet, browned side up. Cook until golden brown on second side, about another 10 minutes. Season with salt and pepper, then transfer to a sheet pan and place in the oven to keep warm.

4. Meanwhile, in saucepan over medium-high, combine shallot, vinegar, white wine, tarragon, hefty pinch of salt and few grinds of pepper. Bring to boil, then reduce heat to simmer. Cook gently until reduced to about 1 tablespoon. Add cream cheese, 1 tablespoon at a time, whisking each until incorporated. Whisk in 2 tablespoons water, then set aside.

5. Wipe out skillet, add 1 tablespoon of remaining oil and heat it over medium-high. Pat steak dry, sprinkle on both sides with salt and pepper, then add to skillet. Cook to desired doneness, 5 minutes per side for medium rare, then transfer it to platter, cover loosely with foil and let rest 5 minutes.

6. While steak rests, add tablespoon of oil to skillet and reduce heat to medium. Add spinach in 4 batches, adding more as each batch cooks down slightly. Add remaining 1/2 tablespoon of oil after first 2 batches of spinach. Cook until spinach is just wilts, then add garlic and salt and pepper to taste. Cook for another minute, then keep warm on low heat.

7. Remove potato pancake from the oven and cut it into 6 wedges. Slice steak thinly at angle against the grain. Add juices from resting steak to sauce along with fresh tarragon, and additional water, if necessary, to reach the desired consistency. Warm sauce over medium heat just until hot.

8. Transfer potato wedge, mound of spinach and some of steak to each of 6 serving plates. Drizzle sauce over each portion of steak and serve. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/ SARA MOULTON, AUTHOR OF SARA MOULTON'S EVERYDAY FAMILY DINNERS.

Liquid Assets

A glass of inspiration

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

One of my resolutions for 2013 was to barbecue better. I've spent too many years tossing burgers on the grill and turning to my glass as they turn into charcoal.

For inspiration, I've looked to Argentina. It's a country where grilling is more than a cooking philosophy, it's a way of life.

While beef is king at an asado, the Argentinean term for barbecue, a typical grilled menu can cover a number of courses featuring a variety of meat cuts including organs that Canadians find an acquired taste. Chitlins anyone?

Nothing washes down all that protein better than a glass of red wine, which is one of the reasons why malbec is the star of Argentina's wine industry. The grape produces deep wines with varying levels of spiciness that pair perfectly with accretive flavours (like those found in barbecue sauces).

Bodegas Catena Zapata is one of the country's most celebrated vineyards. Its 2011 Alamos Malbec ($13.95 to $14.99) is a balanced red with ripe berry fruit and a flowing black pepper trail.

Pass the sweetbreads.

CYNOCLUB/VEER

POLISHED AND PRETTY

Brushing your pooch makes it look polished and pretty. But it has many more benefits.

It keeps your dog's coat free of tangles, matts and debris and removes old and shedding hair. It also gives you the opportunity to do a little doggie bonding and helps you learn about your dog's body — you can look and feel for lumps, cuts or scabs, as well as fleas and ticks. Note that this summer, the word is that ticks are out in full force, so be on the lookout.

Make brushing a positive experience for you and your dog by doing it regularly. The dog will get used to it, you will get good at it and there won't be an opportunity for tangles and matts to get out of control and make the process uncomfortable and lengthy.

"Start with a part down the backbone, so you know you're getting all the layers of hair," says Amy Graham, a PetSmart groomer and salon manager in Stoney Creek, Ont. Systematically, move from section to section to ensure you are getting all areas.

"Keep an eye on the dog's skin — if it appears red, he may be getting a brush burn."

Remember to brush gently, confining your brushing to the hair and not the skin as much as possible, especially in sensitive areas.

If you are using a deshedding tool on a shedding breed, "simply run the tool over the dog's coat to remove excess hair."

If the job gets too difficult for you to handle easily it may be time to take your dog for professional grooming.

STOCKLITE/VEER

THE RIGHT TOOLS FOR A HEALTHY COAT

- For double-coated breeds with thick undercoats like collies or collies or chow chows, choose a deshedding tool like a Furminator.
- For long-coated dogs without undercoats, such as poodles, use a slicker brush with short, pin-like bristles and a comb to check for knots and tangles.
- Short-haired dogs like boxers or bulldogs can be brushed with a rubber brush, or use a Furminator if you are trying to help reduce shedding."
- Also have some detangling spray on hand to help with tangles.

MANAGE YOUR DOG'S SHEDDING

In summer, shedding is nature's way of ridding a dog's body of the old, excess hair they grew during winter to insulate their bodies. Shedding also eliminates hair that might be damaged. Pet owners know that cleaning up a dog's shedding hair comes with the territory. Even hypoallergenic dogs like poodles shed a little. But there are ways to reduce shedding and remove hair effectively.

GIVE YOUR PET A BRUSH

Brushing your dog on a regular basis is one of the best ways to reduce hair in your home.

"While all breeds need to be brushed, it's especially important in summer for long-haired breeds with undercoats like golden retrievers, malamutes and huskies to help reduce shedding and cool the dog in summer," says Amy Graham, a groomer and salon manager with PetSmart in Stoney Creek, Ont.

Depending on the breed of your dog, brush at least three times a week — dogs with lots of excess hair will benefit from daily brushing.

BATHE YOUR DOG

This is easier for short-haired breeds without thick undercoats like pugs or labs.

"If your dog is matted or has a thick undercoat, bathing may only make the matting worse or make it difficult to rinse out the shampoo, which is bad for the skin," Graham says. "Leave the tough jobs like these to a groomer."

GET YOUR DOG GROOMED

"Groomers have professional-strength blow dryers and tools to make the job more efficient," Graham says. "A groomer's blow dryer is so strong that it loosens the undercoat, and the groomer can brush during the drying process, something that can't be done easily at home."

Long-coated dogs should go to the groomer every four to six weeks; short-coated dogs every six to eight weeks.

FEED YOUR DOG THE RIGHT DIET

What a dog eats will be reflected in the condition of the animal's coat, so good-quality food aligned to the dog's health needs is essential.

Penguins hold onto dynamic duo

The Pittsburgh Penguins are keeping hockey's best one-two punch together through their primes.

The Penguins and forward Evgeni Malkin agreed to an eight-year deal that will keep him and Sidney Crosby in the fold well into the next decade.

The $76-million deal begins with the 2014-15 season and carries and average salary cap hit of $9.5 million, a little bit less than the $10.6 million Crosby will average over the first nine years of the 12-year extension he signed last summer.

Stars prospect Winkler dead at 23

Dallas Stars prospect Scott Winkler has died in his home country of Norway after recently completing his senior season at Colorado College. He was 23.

School officials said in a news release that Winkler died unexpectedly Wednesday at his parents' home. The native of Asker, Norway, was a third-round pick by the Stars in 2008.

And the Edmonton Oilers say they have been unable to confirm reports that one of the team's prospects is missing and has possibly drowned. The Oilers put out a statement Thursday saying they were aware of reports Kristians Pelss was unaccounted for in his home country, Latvia, but were unable to confirm conflicting information in that country's media.

Bruins not fazed by 3OT loss in Game 1

Stanley Cup final. Boston and its veterans drawing from experience gained in 2011 playoff run

Boston coach Claude Julien isn't worried because the Bruins have been here before.

Even after a triple-overtime loss to Chicago in Game 1 of the Stanley Cup final that would demoralize the most veteran of groups, the Bruins are calm and confident.

"We've been through a lot," Julien said. "You can chalk that down to experience of having been through a lot, the ups and downs. So we don't get rattled anymore. We know what we can do."

Julien recalled trailing the Vancouver Canucks 2-1 in the 2011 final before coming back to win in seven. He also pointed out that the Bruins lost the first two games to the Montreal Canadiens at home in the first round two years ago.

"I think you've had experience in the past when we've been down two games and bounced back," centre Chris Kelly said. "Being here before and knowing what to expect is definitely beneficial."

So climbing out of a hole is nothing new for Boston, which still has most of its team intact but might have to play Game 2 on Saturday without right-winger Nathan Horton, who left Wednesday night with an apparent upper-body injury.

With or without Horton, the Bruins have plenty of leaders who know the drill.

"Vancouver it was everybody's kind (of) first time around, right?" defenceman Andrew Ference said. "So you lose those couple games (it's) maybe a heavier feeling than it is this morning amongst the group because guys are probably a little bit better at turning the page." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Anyone's game

"We could be sitting here today up 1-0 as much as we are down 1-0."

Bruins coach Claude Julien brushed off Game 1's winning goal as a "hockey play."

LeBron turns up the Heat on Spurs

NBA Finals. James gets back in the groove as Miami evens series at two games apiece

LeBron James scored 33 points while playing with the aggression and ferocity that everyone expects of the four-time MVP, leading the Miami Heat to a 109-93 victory over the San Antonio Spurs on Thursday night that evened the NBA Finals at two games apiece.

James also had 11 rebounds and four assists and finally got some much-needed help from his struggling All-Star teammates.

Dwyane Wade scored 32 points, Chris Bosh had 20 points and 13 rebounds and the defending champions made sure the series will head back to South Beach.

Tony Parker had 15 points and nine assists while playing through a sore right hamstring for the Spurs, who were trying to move one step closer to their fifth championship.

Game 5 in the best-of-seven series is Sunday night in San Antonio.

Ray Allen scored 14 points for the Heat. Miami had 50 points in the paint after managing 32 in a 36-point loss in Game 3.

Tim Duncan scored 20 points, and Kawhi Leonard added 12 points and seven rebounds for the Spurs, who turned the ball over 19 times. After setting a finals record with 16 3-pointers in Game 3, San Antonio was 8-for-16.

James was an abysmal 7-for-21 for 15 points in Game 3, and he promised to be better in Game 4. He delivered on that the only way he knows how, hitting 15 of 25 shots and putting the team on his shoulders to set the tone early.

Every time James snatched a Spurs miss off the glass he thundered up the court, attacking the back-pedaling defence for easy layups that simply haven't been there for him this series.

He made six of his first seven shots, controlling the tempo and responding when the Spurs threatened to run away with the game in the first six minutes. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Encarnacion leads Jays past Rangers

Edwin Encarnacion hit a tiebreaking two-run double in the eighth inning and the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Texas Rangers 3-1 on Thursday night.

The slumping Rangers wasted another solid outing by Yu Darvish, who has made five consecutive starts without a victory.

Neal Cotts (2-1) replaced Darvish to start the eighth, when Emilio Bonifacio reached on a throwing error by Gold Glove third baseman Adrian Beltre. Munenori Kawasaki had a sacrifice bunt before Tanner Scheppers, the second reliever, walked Jose Bautista before the double by Encarnacion.

Esmil Rogers (2-2) allowed one run over seven innings, the same as Darvish, who struck out nine. Darvish has a 2.08 ERA over 34 2/3 innings in his last five starts.

Nelson Cruz homered for the Rangers, who have lost three in a row. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Good things are sure to come your way today but exactly what kind of good things remains to be seen. You may well benefit from something you hear, maybe when you should not have been listening.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Anyone who tries to make you feel you have done something wrong is not a friend and best avoided. Your mood is positive, so it's unlikely you will be too fazed.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
You will sail through what has to be done today. You will find ways to overcome obstacles placed in your path. Gemini is one of the more adaptable signs of the zodiac, and that works in your favour.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You have much to think about today and you need to make sure you are not interrupted by people whose problems are, to your mind at least, rather trivial. Find a quiet corner where you can think in peace.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
What appeared so difficult yesterday will suddenly be the easiest thing. Chances are it wasn't actually that difficult at all. You were just in an unnecessarily negative frame of mind.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Stop worrying what others might think and do what you feel is right. Sometimes you can be a bit too analytical for your own good, so switch and let your heart guide you.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You may have to tell someone that you cannot deliver on what you promised. Chances are they won't mind in the slightest. It seems like they didn't want you to do it.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
The solution to a problem is simplicity but you are unlikely to see it if you are so convinced there has been an injustice. Calm down, it's really not that important.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Stop panicking and trust your instincts. If you listen to the small voice inside your head you will find a way out of your dilemma. It's amazing what a bit of perspective can do.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
People you work with may do things you don't approve of today but in the greater scheme of things it's no big deal. By all means laugh when they discover they've made fools of themselves.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
With both Mars and Jupiter moving through the most dynamic area of your chart, you are full of confidence and eager to show what you can do. So, what can you do? Absolutely anything you like.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20

START AGAIN WITH JESUS

Have you known the Lord before and gone back or you desire to know Him but do not know how? Jesus himself said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me".(John 14:6).
Why don't you turn to Jesus?
